those women who had the highest intake were 45 less likely to have prevalent cac than those with the lowest levels of consumption